

USEFUL LINKS – SUPPLY CHAIN MANAGEMENT

www.ijlm.org

The website of 'The International Journal of Logistics Management' with a number of complete articles from the journal. A number of summarising articles can also be found on the site. Subscription is possible for full access. Finally this website presents an extensive overview of seminars on Supply Chain Management.

www.inventoryops.com

This website provides a number of accessible articles on practical logistics subjects, such as stock management, warehouse management and order picking.

www.apics.org

Site of APICS training institute. This site provides a very wide range of articles from APICS magazine, information on the APICS training courses and an online bookshop.

www.marketsandexchanges.com

Website with lots of information on e-business and online marketplaces. The site also provides videos of interviews with prominent market leaders.

www.links4news.nl

Website with an impressive number of links. Good starting point for extensive Internet research on subjects such as SCM, CRM and e-business.

www.aberdeen.com

The Aberdeen Group is an ICT analysts agency. The site contains quite a lot of accessible articles.

www.supply-chain.org

This site focuses mainly on knowledge with regard to the SCOR model. This is a model used to visualise and describe supply chains. The site is rather superficial for non-members.

www.prtm.com

Very extensive with many articles on a wide range of business subjects (SCM, IT, strategy, etc.) Free registration is required for articles in the insight magazine; there are also good articles under press releases.

www.foodlogistics.com

Site focused on the application of logistics and SCM in the food production chain. The in-depth studies are particularly interesting. Mainly geared towards the US market.

www.ecr.nl

ECR Nederland is the Netherlands organisation in a worldwide network of organisations that focus on promoting efficient consumer response. ECR presents best practices and brings organisations in the sector together to promote cooperation. The site provides information on ECR, current projects and available presentations.

<http://supplychain.ittoolbox.com>

Supply Chain IT Toolbox is an extensive site with many up-to-date and academic articles. A wide variety of material from consultants, suppliers and trend watchers. Focused on supply chain management, demand management, warehouse management and distribution.

<http://ebusiness.ittoolbox.com>

E-business IT Toolbox is an extensive site with many up-to-date and academic articles. A wide variety of material from consultants, suppliers and trend watchers. Focused on e-business (B2B, B2C), knowledge management and web development.

www.logisticsworld.com

This site provides an overview of other sources and sites in the area of logistics and supply chain management.

www.crmsupersite.com

Site with IT-related information on CRM strategy, applications and implementation. Includes up-to-date news as well as some background information.

www.erp.supersite.com

Site with IT-related information on ERP strategy, applications and implementation. Includes up-to-date news as well as some background information.

www.intelligententerprise.com

Up to date and background information on CRM, knowledge management, ERP and supply chain management.

www.b2business.net

B2B e-business information: this site also provides some up-to-date news. In addition the site provides a large number of links to other relevant sites.

www.manufacturing.net

This site provides a large number of articles on logistics, production, supply chain management and the relationship with IT.

www.ascet.com

ASCET stands for Achieving Supply Chain Excellence through Technology. This website provides a large number of articles and news reports on a number of subjects, varying from change management to specific logistics themes.